

RAILROAD CONGRESSMEN LEAD FIGHT ON ANTI-STRIKE CLAUSE

They look like engineer, fireman and conductor of a train crew, don't they? But they're congressmen, too. The man with the oil can is William L. Carr, Labor-Nonpartisan League congressman from Minnesota. He's a member of the engineers' brotherhood, and used to run a locomotive himself. The man with the shovel is John C. Cooper, Republican congressman from Ohio. He is a locomotive fireman by trade and belongs to that brotherhood. The man signaling "Go Ahead" is William J. Burke, Republican congressman from Pennsylvania. He is a railroad conductor by trade. These three with Congressman Patrick McLane, Democrat, Pennsylvania, brakeman, are "brotherhood representatives" in Congress, and are leading the House fight on the Cummins anti-strike clause.

Vacation Over and Students Returning

Students of the Ogden high school, Weber normal, Sacred Heart academy and public schools of the city returned to their studies after spending two weeks at fun and merriment.

During the Christmas holidays but two vacancies occurred in the school system of Ogden, but they have already been filled, according to Supt. Karl Hopkins. The first semester will end January 23. Several students will be graduated at midyear.

Silk stockings were first worn by Henry the Second, of France, in 1547. Howell says, in 1560 Queen Elizabeth was presented with a pair of black knit silk stockings by her silk woman, Mrs. Montague, and she never wore cloth ones any more.
